

Education Inclusion Family Advisor Newsletter

June 2024

A message for me.....

I am Amanda Gilbert Education Inclusion Family Advisor for parents in primary schools. Available to provide information, support, and signposting for parents. Please get in touch if you would like some support:

Activity Idea

With the weather being so rainy lately it might be a good idea to have some indoor games up your sleeve:

Tiny Treasure Hunt:

Give everyone an empty matchbox (any tiny container will do) and challenge them to fill it with as many tiny things as they can, see who can get the most objects in their box.

Check out these lovely ideas for things to do with empty match boxes (you can buy match box blanks online)

Parenting Top Tip

Getting children to listen:

When asking your child to do something:

- Go to where your child is (no calling from a different room)
- Get down to their level.
- Give the instruction (politely)
- Give them TIME to process, this tends to take children longer especially if they are being asked to do something they don't want to.
- Try not to overload your child with instructions, stick to only those that are absolutely necessary.
